Methicillin Resistant Staphylococcus Aureus (MRSA), better known as the hospital killer bug is a growing danger, as are other contagious germs. Hospital hygiene is one of the important preconditions in the battle against these micro-organisms. Using the Lavette Super colour coding system in a professional way, makes sure that used wipes from one colour may not be used elsewhere. This way Lavette Super contributes to your hospital's hygiene and assists you in diminishing the danger of cross-contamination and providing patients and employees a healthy and safe environment.
